Braden and Liz are currently preparing to join staff with Engineering Ministries International on a full time basis.

Braden, a geomatics engineer, has felt called to a missions-based career since high school. In June 2011, after researching how he could combine his faith and his geomatics degree, Braden joined an eMi project trip to Mirebalais, Haiti, surveying 4 acres of land as part of a team serving Haiti's Children's Home. God opened his eyes to some amazing things in Haiti and began to pull his heart in a new direction—full-time staff with eMi.

Braden volunteered on a second project trip to Danli, Honduras in February 2012, joined by his wife Liz. The couple surveyed 65 acres of land for the Munoz Ministries' future missionary base. This experience confirmed their own future with eMi.

Based in Calgary, Braden supports project leaders with his technical expertise, coordinates the many interns that flow through the eMi Canada office, and joins project trips as an engineer when appropriate.

Liz hopes to also use her journalism and event-planning skills for Engineering Ministries International.

In February 2014, Braden joined his third eMi team, aiding in the survey and design of the Shalom University of Bunia in the Democratic Republic of the Congo.
